

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A system and method are disclosed for load-sharing in reliable server pools which provide access to legacy servers. A proxy pool element provides an interface between a name server and a legacy server pool, the proxy pool element monitoring legacy application status to effect load sharing and to provide access for an application client via the name server and aggregate server access protocol.